

New Medline packaging solution

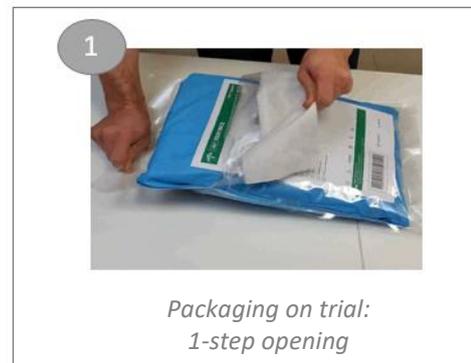

Market trial

Dear Valued Customer,

As part of a continuous process to ensure high-quality products and improve the level of our service to customers, Medline would like to introduce a new packaging solution through a large-scale market trial.

New peelable header bag packaging offers a one-step opening solution to replace the header bags currently used for Medline drapes and packs. The current header bag requires two steps to open the pack (first removing the header, then removing the pack from the bag), while, with this new solution, the pack is ready to be used immediately after peeling the bag.

In addition, a QR code has been added next to the traceability sticker to direct you to the new opening instructions.

To help us make this trial a success, we kindly ask you to share your feedback with your Medline sales representative. Our surgical drape division and your local sales representative are also available to assist you with accessing additional information you may need.

Thank you for your continued trust and partnership.
